New Daily delivers strength with car-like handling

Iveco's innovative new Daily range cleverly combines the strength of a truck with the comfort and refinement of a passenger vehicle, ensuring owners will enjoy durability and high payloads without having to sacrifice driver comfort and inner-city performance.

All Daily van and cab chassis models are developed on a truck-like solid steel, C-section chassis that are flat and non-riveted and feature heavy duty cross members. This combination provides a strong basis for body fitment in the case of the cab chassis, while allowing for a broad range of internal fit-out options in van models.

Adding to the rugged nature of the new range are high axle capacities of up to 2,500kg for the front and 5,350kg for the rear depending on the model.

While the Daily range's workhorse credentials are cemented by providing a selection of GVM ranges of between 3,800kg and 7,000kg – comparable to available cab over light truck ranges – two important areas in which cab over trucks simply can't compete is driver comfort and safety.

By their very nature, cab over trucks have the driver seated over the front wheels, this positioning telegraphs bumps and uneven road services directly under them resulting in a potentially jolting ride, especially when the vehicle is unladen.

In the Daily, the driver is more ideally seated behind the front wheels for a smoother ride. Also adding to the supple drive are independent front suspension (some models with adjustable torsion bar) and parabolic rear suspension with anti-roll bar. Any bumps entering the cabin are further dulled by the air suspension seating.

On the road the driver enjoys the added peace of mind of front and rear disc brakes with ABS and EBD (Electronic Brake force Distribution), stability control, 'Hill Holder' along with driver passenger and curtain airbags, it's a combination of active and passive safety features unmatched by any cab over light trucks.

The availability of Iveco's 8-Speed Hi-Matic, full automatic also adds to the driving experience.

Iveco Product Manager – Light and Medium, Christian Andel said the new Iveco Daily is an excellent alternative to a cab over light truck.

"There is a misconception in the market that if you have a demanding light duty application requiring a vehicle with a reasonably large payload, that your standard fare, cab over is the only option," Mr Andel said.

"This is of course untrue – the new Daily provides all the best features of a truck, namely a strong ladder chassis and the associated payload benefits, with driving characteristics and safety features more in keeping with a van or passenger car."

Mr Andel said this combination of benefits should see Daily models shortlisted for buyers not only looking for a van, but those wanting a more comfortable alternative to cab over light trucks.

"Anyone who's driven a cab over light truck over any distance, particularly unloaded, would agree that the experience is not pleasant on all but the smoothest of roads," he said.

"It's very common for pick-up and delivery drivers, couriers, tradespeople and the like to spend many hours on the road each day, in a vehicle such as the Daily they'll be less fatigued.

"For customers looking to replace their utility for something bigger, or those who may be in the market for a replacement van or cab chassis truck, I urge them to visit their local Iveco dealership and take the new Daily for a test drive – they won't look back.

Stunning new accessories for Daily

The release of the award-winning new Daily in Australia has been accompanied by the launch of the most comprehensive accessories range ever available for the model.

Among the accessories are products that have been specifically designed and manufactured for the Australian market including nudge bars, tow bars and acrylic products, providing owners with a broad range of accessories that are both functional and aesthetically pleasing.

The new accessories are competitively-priced and available from the Iveco Dealer Network under four main categories: External, Internal, Electrical and Security.

External

The new Daily nudge bar provides additional protection on the road while also looking great. Designed and manufactured in Australia, the bar features polished stainless steel construction and fitting brackets are available for each variant of the New Daily.

For greater versatility and load carrying capacity, Iveco offers a range of towbar packages designed to fit both cab chassis and van variants. The towbars are dynamically tested to two million cycles and conform to strict ADR regulations.

The Daily acrylic products include headlight and bonnet protectors as well as weather shield. All three products are manufactured in Australia from UV-stable, high-quality acrylic for greater longevity. The protectors offer excellent protection against stone chips and road debris and use existing mounting points so no permanent modification is required. The weather shield aids air circulation in the cabin, reducing window fogging.

Owners of Daily cab chassis fitted with taller bodies can select the new roof spoiler. The stylish yet functional spoiler increases aerodynamics leading to reduced fuel consumption. The spoiler is solid yet lightweight and installation is a simple process.

For easier ingress and egress from the cargo area of Daily vans, Iveco is offering a side step kit that also provides additional protection against knocks to the side of the vehicle.

Other external accessories include alloy wheels and stainless steel wheel covers for the hub as well as 16" single and dual wheels. Wrapping up the external offering is a Daily Silver decal kit allowing owners to highlight the character and design of their vehicle.

Internal

On the inside Iveco offers a number of new accessories designed to offer maximum protection. The flooring trim is manufactured from 12mm phenolic laminate while panel trim is manufactured from 4mm propylene with an internal honeycomb structure. The panels are also extremely resistant to humidity, chemical agents and scratches. Inside the cabin, a number of premium seat covers are available. Designed to provide a close fit on the seats, the microfiber covers are stylish, offer protection and the buyer can select from blue or red inserts. Other seat cover options include the 'Premium Silver Line' featuring Techno Silk fabric and the 'Transporter Line' available in sand colour microfiber with breathable faux leather inserts. Complementing the seat covers are matching fabric floor mats with a choice of red, blue or silver trim with double-fixing systems to ensure they remain in position. Owners who use their Dailys on building sites can opt for a heavy duty rubber floor mat constructed using hard-wearing plastic/rubber composite. The liner can be removed in seconds for easy-cleaning and refitted in moments. For dashboard protection, a black fabric dash mat is also available.

Electrics

Technology-focused owners of the new Daily will enjoy the 'Full Vision' multimedia system which includes navigation system and rear camera for increased safety. The system features a 6.2" high resolution drag-and-drop interface. System benefits include DVD mechanics, integrated GPS with truck navigation software, Bluetooth connectivity, smartphone audio control on screen, auxiliary inputs and USB ports and much more.

Also on offer are trailer plug adaptor and harness to ensure the trailer cabling properly mates to the van and cab chassis.

Security

For secure storage of tools and equipment, Iveco is offering a wide range of toolboxes for the new Daily. These can be purchased in a variety of sizes and are predominantly constructed of stainless steel. Several medium density polyethylene tool boxes are also available.

Other accessories include 25 litre stainless steel tanks, ideal for hand washing while on the work site. For easy mounting of the toolboxes and tanks, Iveco provides a range of stainless steel mounting brackets at an additional costs.

Capping off the current Daily accessories range is an anti-theft fuel insert. The device which is inserted into the fuel tank neck limits the amount of fuel that can be extracted while also allowing fast refuelling of up to 120 l/min. Installation is fast and simple.
